Brochure

It is a common desire of all budding researchers to publish high quality research paper, but they get often struck into the idea, method and the process. Researchers nowadays are putting all their efforts in learning and cramming complex formula and software to create models or prove a hypothesis. Even after finding something unique they face difficulty in research writing and getting it published. Since time is the biggest constraint, most of researchers usually give up in mid-way or they compromise for lesser quality journals. So the problem doesn't lie with "why", rather the real problem is "what" and more importantly "How to do it?" This two day workshop on the "Art of Research Writing" aims at providing an opportunity to the participants to learn the art of writing high quality research papers from acclaimed experts.
